10,000 EXPECTED AT COLLEGE STADIUM

Prof. Fairbanks Directs Pageant

The Most Rev. Edward F. Ryan, Bishop of Burlington, has called upon the more than 100,000 Vermont Catholics to join in the observances of the 100th anniversary of the diocese during 1953.

YEAR-ROUND CELEBRATION

While the formal ceremonies will occur on July 29, the date on which, in 1853, Pope Pius IX created the Diocese of Burlington, the Centenary is being kept in mind throughout the year.

In every parish the Centenary Prayer, composed by Bishop Ryan, is already being recited after each Low Mass. Prayer cards have been printed and will be distributed soon so that the faithful can say the prayer with the priest.

SPECIAL MASSES SUNG

The Forty Hours Devotion in each parish will emphasize thanksgiving and reparation for the past 100 years. It is expected that special preachers will give sermons on these subjects during this annual devotion. Also a Novena or a Triduum of prayer will be conducted in each parish prior

First Mass July 29

The first public evening Mass in the history of Vermont will mark the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Burlington Diocese.

This announcement was made last Thursday, March 19, by Most Rev. Edward F. Ryan, Bishop of Burlington.

Bishop Ryan has given permission for the evening Mass at St. Michael's College stadium, Wednesday, July 29.

EVENING MASS PREFERRED

General permission for Masses in the afternoon and evening was granted earlier at Rome. Bishop Ryan decided on the evening Mass so that the largest possible number might attend. More than 10,000 are expected to attend this service.

Another evening Mass is scheduled at Barre on Friday, July 31. The religious celebration at Rutland will be Sunday morning, August 2.

SIGNIFIGANCE FAR REACHING

Prelates from all over the country are expected for the celebration of the anniversary, according to Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick C. Brennan, V.G., P.A.,

Addresses Highlight Communion Breakfast

By Bob Levins

"With feet firmly planted in solid Christian doctrine and enlightened and inspired by a clear understanding of the nature of the Church, Catholic America must look to the future."

These were the words of the Very Rev. Francis E. Moriarty, S.S.E., president of St. Michael's, as he addressed the student body at the annual communion breakfast of the Mission Crusade and Sodality Sunday morning.

A THOUGHTFUL APOSTOLATE

Speaking on the topic "The Church and the Apostolate of the Future," Father Moriarty pointed out that our assignment is "to mold ourselves into fit instruments through which God may work." He went on to say that "the educated Catholic can not remain aloof. The seething unrest between capital and labor, he said, called for a good, clear, thoughtful apostolate.

"INDISPENSABLE FOUNTS"

"Prayer, the sacramental life, the Mass, recollection, retreats, and so forth, are the indispensable source of energy needed in this crusade, for they are the founts of divine life," continued Father Moriarty. "An authentic apostolate can be built on no other foundation."

LEADERSHIP ESSENTIAL

Speaking about the place of Catholic education, specifically Catholic higher education, in this world movement Father Moriarty said, "The first apostolate must be in the realm of Thought for pure thought is the highest function of the order of nature. We must take the lead in every avenue of human learning."

OUR PRESENT EVILS

"Corporations must be told," he said, "that unions are here to stay and justice is due to the members."

"Labor must be told," he said, "that in many instances it is traveling blind. It must be harnessed by pure thought."

The rights of minorities, especially the rights of the colored," offer another vital field in which the apostolate should be exercised, Father Moriarty continued. He told the students that equal facilitiee must be made available for minorities in the field of education, in economic opportunity and in the question of legal rights.

FARLEY LAUDED

Speaking of the "sacredness of public service," Father Moriarty lauded the example of men like Jim Farley who gave their time and talents in serving their fellow man and of urging others to enter the same field.

APOSTOLIC DEFICIENCY

So far as the Church is concerned, he said, there is

"ROLL UP YOUR SLEEVES"

At 9 A.M. Monday morning, the doors of Austin Hall will be opened to the Bloodmobile Unit of the American Red Cross. Once again the Burlington Chapter is calling upon Michaelmen to " roll up their sleeves and give."

It will mark the second time since September and the third time in the last thirteen months that Austin Hall has become a " hospital." Last March, St. Michael's broke a national collegiate record by having 391½ pints donated.

Due to lack of facilities, the Red Cross desired to have two separate collections this year and the Student Council agreed. The first drive in October netted less than 150 pints because of a short notice.

For the second collection, however, the Council was given ample time to obtain pledges and at present about 200 have been secured. The Red Cross Unit would like between 200 - 250 pints but the Council committee of John O'Connor, John Cummings and George Gilbride have set their sights even higher.

This is the story on what happens to your blood that you donate.

Within 72 hours after the blood is given, half of it is on the Korean battlefields, part of it is in local hospitals and the rest is in Washington where it is made into plasma and put in a stockpile, in case of a national emergency. Part of this plasma is also sent to the battlefront to save the lives of many Americans.

Ask any G.I. who has received blood on the battlefield and who was given another chance to live because of it. He'll tell you of the urgent need for blood. Or ask any doctor or nurse who has frequently given transfusions to a little girl, stricken with leukemia, they will tell you that she has unlimited thanks for the blood and for the kind-hearted donor.

The blood that you give may save the life of a buddy or the life of some child. These people have the same right to live as you and I do.

Can it be said that a Michaelman refused someone else this precious right to life and happiness?

Attention Club Presidents

This newspaper is for the use of all clubs, but not for the abuse of any club. The editorial policies which have been formulated to aid the editorial staff in publishing a newspaper which is representative of campus activities still hold.

TO AID THE STUDENT

These policies in turn aid individuals who wish to reach the student body as a whole. In other words, if you wish to improve this newspaper instead of merely complaining about its apparent shortcomings, you will be doing yourself and the editorial staff a service by observing the rules.

NECESSARY PROCEDURES

First of all is the matter of time. It must be clear that if a story is not handed in until the last minute it cannot (and does not deserve to) be printed.

THE DEADLINE IS TUESDAY NOON BEFORE PUBLICATION. NOTE THIS WELL.

Next is the matter of form. The rule is that ALL COPY submitted by presidents of clubs or their representatives MUST BE TYPED, WITH A CARBON COPY. That means using only one side of each piece of paper. If students have difficulty locating or using a typewriter, printing in ink may be used PROVIDED THAT IT IS NEAT.

"TO DO A JOB RIGHT..."

The MICHAELMAN will cover meetings and lectures which its editors judge to be of general interest. It is not to be supposed, however, that its relatively small body of reporters be expected to make weekly checks on all clubs or to cover any story that an individual club member considers important.

PRESIDENTS OF ALL CLUBS: If you have a story pertaining to the activities of your organization which is of general interest and has not been covered by a member of the MICHAELMAN editorial staff, have your secretary turn in the report himself. Please give us notice in advance. That's when its NEWS.

All news may be submitted to Art Kiernan, Ryan 224, to Mr. Donoghue at the Public Relations Office or to Chris Carey, Ryan 112.

PRESENTING---"OTHELLO"

The annual presentation of Shakespeare's "Othello" on Columbia records will be given on March 24th it was announced this week.

The recordings, featuring Paul Robeson as Othello and Jose' Ferrer as Iago, are acknowledged to be among the finest interpretations of the roles in recent years.

Dr. Jeremiah K. Durick, Professor of English and head of the English Department, will comment on interpretation and on general aspects of the play. A short discussion analysis will follow the performance.

This seminar will be open to the student body, particularly to those majoring or planning to major in English.

In charge of general arrangements are Bro. Robert Harrington, SSE., Lt. William Doe, John McSweeney and Leo Allard.

COUNCIL BACKS DRIVE

By JERRY RYAN

At last week's meeting, John Roth introduced a motion that the class representatives see the members of their class, discuss any problems with them, and then have the students write out the problems so that the class representatives can submit them back to the Council. After some discussion the motion was passed. Results are already beginning to show, from this, by the amount of business that was handled at this week's meeting.

Despite rumors to the contrary, there will be no change as to Easter vacation, March 31 - April 9.

At the request of John O'Connor, the Council voted to present $15.00 to the floor having the best percentage of students giving blood.

The Junior Weekend budget, introduced and explained by John O'Connor, was set at $1,126.00. Jim McDonald's motion that the budget be accepted was passed unanimously.

Since the Biology Club will be sending John Fulmer and George Lucia to Albany to attend the Eastern States Conference, March 26, 27, 28, Ken Kirby made the motion that the Biology Club receive $31.00 to help the club pay the expenses of the trip.

A suggestion was made by K. Kirby that the amount needed to pay the expenses of the students who attend the Eastern States Conference, since it is an annual event, be incorporated in the Biology Club's budget next year. Action will perhaps be taken on his suggestion when new budgets are drawn up for next year.

A suggestion, and one worthy of consideration, put forth by Pete Chiacchieri was made that a small fee be included in the present Student Activities Fee for the sole purpose of providing funds for the Junior Weekend. " If this was included in the present Activities Fee," Chiacchieri stated, " it would be possible to have a big name band and make the Junior Weekend the largest social event of the year. The price of the tickets would be practically nothing, making it possible for more students to attend."

MAPLE SUGAR CONFERENCE

John McGough (Holyoke, Mass.) president of the International Relations Club will lead a delegation of 13 Michaelmen at the Vermont Maple Sugar Conference March 20, 21, 22 at the University of Vermont. There will be over 100 colleges from the Eastern Seaboard attending the conference.

The conference theme is: Near-Eastern Nationalism - to be Feared or Favored! Professor Paul Evans of U.V.M. will moderate the panel discussion by Mr. Paul Gove-Booth of British Information Service, Dr. Mirko Bruner, the first secretary of the Yugoslavian Embassy, and Mr. M. Samir Ahmed the press attache of the Egyptian Embassy. The panel will take place Saturday morning.

Dr. Farid Zeineddine, Syrian Ambassador, will open the conference with an address on the theme. This is open to the public on March 20 at 8:00 in Ira Allen Chapel.

Mr. Wilber of the U.S. Department of State will give an address on the " Middle East in Today's World," during the banquet Saturday evening. Other social events include a maple sugar party and a square dance.

Stan Albro, a member of the I.R. Club will lead a panel discussion on the " Economic Aspects of Nationalism." Stan will be one of four such panel leaders at the conference.

Other members of the club attending will be: Don Burnett, John Burnett, Rudolph Presutti, Nick Mancinelli, Rudolph Meola, Paul Dumais, Frank Carmichael, John Dolan, Jack Walker, Dave Mullin and Jack Carroll.

COMMITTEE PLANS FOR DRAWING

Around this time of the year, the sports columnist, having pored over the facts, figures and records of the past and having taken a look at the results of the spring training thus far, tries to reason out the obvious winners of the pennant races in the Major League. But more often than not, he will throw out this reasoning and proceed to dust off his crystal ball, look into the cards and the stars and somehow or other come up with a different answer. Rather than break with this tradition, let's turn from the local scene for a moment and try to predict " who's where " in baseball for '53.

In the Junior Circuit, Casey Stengel has everything he had last season, and for this reason, he is this corner's choice to make it five in a row for the Yanks. His outfield is young and powerful and his infield is one of the best defensive units in the game. Age, however, which is working its way into the pitching staff can be counter-balanced by the addition of Whitey Ford and a bull-pen full of proven relievers. Of those who could upset the applecart for New York, Cleveland has the best chance. In pitching, Lopez has the best staff in either league but he lacks the depth of the Yanks. Perhaps the margin between the two will be determined by what their infield can do. The Indians, over the past season were the worst fielding team in the league and if they don't tie up those loose ends, they will find the White Sox breathing down their necks. In this writers opinion, Chicago hasn't got the pitching to overcome either the Yanks or Cleveland but Manager Richards shouldn't have much trouble in gaining third place for the second season in a row.

SENATORS NEED HITS

Almost a sure bet to gain a first division berth this year will be the Washington Senators. A lift in the hitting department will be all the Senators need to go along with a flock of youngsters and a mound staff that performed wonders last year, under the circumstances. The Athletics are growing too old to be anything but spoilers this year. Pitchers like Byrd and Shantz will give the first division clubs a hard time but the A's lack the punch to break in themselves. The Red Sox don't figure any higher than sixth, unless some of their rookies turn in better than average years. The Browns and the Tigers will fight it out to stay out of the cellar, and from here St. Louis looks a shade better.

NL A TOSS-UP

The National League is a toss-up, but I'll pick on the Giants to make it a subway series. To do it, they will have to come a long way in the fielding department and get some pitching from Maglie and Jansen. With Irvin and Thomson in good shape, the hitting looks safe enough. The Dodgers can no longer boast of a young ball club and Dressen's group of hurlers isn't solid enough to hold up against the other contenders. Nevertheless, they were in the same spot last season and still managed to pull it out. If Hodges and Furillo can come through, Brooklyn can make it tough on any club. The Phillies merit third place on the basis of their pitching. They have a strong defensive infield and a powerful outfield, but reserve strength will present a problem. Musial can't do it all, and for this reason the St. Louis Cardinals will depending quite a bit on youngsters. After all, how long can Slaughter go on? But a young pitching staff and some help from the bench should keep them in the first division.

PLENTY OF 'IFS'

The Cubs are too much in need of a catcher and a power hitter to be a threat. But they have got the depth and a fair enough set of pitchers to stay ahead of the Braves. The Boston (or Milwaukee) Braves have a fine crop of rookies on the way and could be trouble-makers, but overall they can't match the real contenders. There's too many " ifs " in the consideration of the Reds to grant them anything but seventh place. The pitching seems to be below par and the hitting is still a question mark. The only sure thing about Pittsburgh is that they can't possibly do any worse. Rickey's youth program hasn't turned out quite the way he expected it to.

Well that's it, another subway series in New York. Check back 1,232 games from now and we'll see just how cloudy the crystal ball was.

ST. JOHN'S CHAMPS

This week saw the expected and the unexpected occur in intramural basketball play and the main character in both phases was the classy St. John's team.

St. John's did the expected by copping the intramural league crown. In a field of 16 fine teams, the Frosh fast broke their way to a sparkling 11-1 record. In the 11-1 record lies the clue to the unexpected happening. Up to St. Patrick's Day, St. John's sported an unblemished record and were strong favorites to defeat Ryan IV for a perfect season.

Fr. Poirer's sophomores with green " R's " pinned on their white jerseys did not need to rely on the " luck of the Irish " to pull an upset. They out-fought, out-played and out-hustled the St. John's five and emerged the victors 41-35. Baseballer Dick Giltrop showed his ball-hawking ability on the court by intercepting passes and converting them into tallies for Ryan. He put 16 through the hoop in addition to his defensive play. The fast break style ball usually utilized by the Frosh failed as the Ryaners made them play a slower game. St. John's ace Jack Lennon hit for 15 points besides playing a fine game under the boards.

TOURNAMENT NEXT WEEK

Fr. Stankiewicz announced that a post season tournament will get under way next week. St. John's, as champs of the league, will draw a bye in the first round. The remainder of the invitations will go out to the teams that finished in the upper half of the league. The way it looks now St. John's will face the winner of the St. Leo's-Ryan III game in the semi-finals. Other opening games feature St. Pat's and Ryan IV while the P.J. Five take on St. William's.

the religious apostolate. " Right now," he declared, the diocese of Burlington is almost starving for priests. We in the Society of St. Edmund could use another 20 priests at the college and still 20 more in our southern missions."

David Mullin, president of the senior class, acted as toastmaster and introduced Father Moriarty. Speaking briefly were Rev. Paul A. Gopaul, S.S.E., moderator of the Sodality, and Rev. Maurice E. Boucher, S.S.E., moderator of the Mission Crusade. William T. Doyle and Cleveland Williams, presidents respectively of the Crusade and Sodality, assisted Richard Nolan in planning for the breakfast which followed the high Mass in the college chapel.

PROM

The committee for the weekend headed by John O'Connor and his two co-chairmen Louis Siclari and James MacDonald have set a new presedent by planning a picnic for Saturday afternoon.

MOONLIGHT CRUISE

One of the highlights of the weekend other than those that have been mentioned will be the moonlight cruise and dance along Lake Champlain aboard the Ticonderoga. The dance aboard the " Ti " Saturday night will be informal. The moonlight dance will be the topper of what is expected to be the " finest weekend ever presented in the history of the school."

BLANKET TICKET

This year's chairman has been able, with the help of his committee, to lower the cost of the blanket tickets to $6.50. This is much cheaper than the price of tickets in previous years.

MAKE RESERVATIONS NOW

It would be wise to invite your dates as soon as possible and, if you bring a girl from home, make your reservations for her early at the local tourist homes. This is very important because on this same weekend Burlington plays host to the state music festival and many people will be seeking rooms.

This weekend should be a must on every Michaelman's social calendar.

to the formal celebration. A special High Mass is to be sung in each church on Sunday, July 26 for the intentions of the Diocese.

PAGEANT PLANNED

To dramatize the historical aspects of the celebration, the Catholic Youth Organization will present a pageant which covers the entire history of Catholicism in Vermont, dating back to its discovery in 1609 by Samuel de Champlain.

The pageant is being directed by Prof. Henry G. Fairbanks. It will be shown at Centennial Field in Burlington on Sunday afternoon, May 17, and at the Rutland Fair Grounds on Sunday, May 24.

The entire AFROTC cadet corps with band will be one of the colorful units to take part. Several students are also assisting with plans for the pageant.

A memorial book is being prepared for all who contribute to the Bishop's memorial fund. The history of the diocese is being written by Rev. Vincent B. Maloney, S.S.E., and Dr. Jeremiah K. Durick. The history will cover the growth of Catholicism in the Green Mountains, with a page devoted to each of the parishes in the diocese.

Permission for the use of the field was granted by Very Rev. Francis E. Moriarty, S.S.E., president, and the board of trustees of St. Michael's. A "Knightlights" Prevue

" Knightlights " moved into the preliminary rehearsal stage this week in preparation for the Centenary Benefit at Memorial Auditorium April 17th. The benefit for Vermont's aged, particularly for the aged priests of the diocese, will be presented under the joint auspices of St. Michael's College and Trinity College and will represent the contribution of both student body to Bishop Ryan's Centenary Fund.

A NEW PRODUCTION

155 Michaelmen and 25 Trinitarians will combine their talents into a 2 hour production similar to the " Knightlights " show given here on campus last November. Co-Directors, Leo Allard and Paul Kelly announced, however that although many of the same entertainers will be in the new cast, " Knightlights " will be an almost entirely new and different production.

NEWCOMER LAROCK

Among new additions and acts to the presentation is Dick LaRock, freshman tenor, who will sing the popular " Laura " and " Anywhere I Wander," recently made popular by the Julius LaRosa recording.

An interesting addition to the new knightlights is a quartet from Cathedral High School. This local group has offered its services to the Burlington area, particularly for their " Roaring Twenties" version of " Five-Foot-Two " and Bye-bye, Blues."

FAVORITES ENCORE

Among the familiar faces returning to " Knightlights " will be Herb Ashe who will be heard in the Horace Heidt program this April 9th, Reid Louden, who will present his dual piano-organ arrangement of " Tico-Tico," the Iorossi Brothers, Pat Joyal, " The Arabian Knights," Tony Agostinelli, " Valdini the Great," McGillicuddy and Sullivan, Bob Fosket's College Octet, The St. Michael's College Glee Club and many others.

TICKETS SOON

Chairman, Bill Doyle of the Ticket Committee announced that tickets will go on sale within 10 days through ticket salesmen in every hall.

Directors Allard and Kelly expressed the need for still more volunteers to work, not only among the various planning committees, but also among the technical, back stage and auditorium crews the night of the show. Anyone wishing to volunteer are urged to contact them at Ryan Hall 112.
